1. Gameplay

The New York Sports Exchange is a virtual sports trading game, in which players trade virtual options proposing outcomes of real-world sporting events. The in-game value of these options are dynamically determined by the performance of the corresponding propositions in real-world events. Players can trade options using virtual currency (Units or u) provided by the game. Virtual currency has no real dollar value.

2. Eligibility

3. Prize Redemption

Virtual currency may be redeemed for prizes, if available, in The Prize Exchange. Physical prizes will be shipped to the user's address on record, or to the address provided at the time of redemption.

4. Portfolio Balance

Each players' virtual currency portfolio balance is dynamically determined by the New York Sports Exchange auditing engine. This engine may adjust balances if market discrepancies are encountered. Invalid balances must be reported to the game administrators at contact@newyorkspix.com.

5. Disqualification

Client-side exploits are prohibited and may result in disqualification from prize redemption. Players must report any issues or exploits to the game administrators at contact@newyorkspix.com. Repeated and unreported exploits may disqualify players from prize redemption.
